

CS 348

Basic terminology

Parallel computing - on one computer
- multiple cores that may or may not share memory

Distributed computing - across multiple computers
- send messages to each other

Concurrent computing - multiple tasks are running but not necessarily simultaneously; they might be running on one core, and they're swapping time with each other (this includes parallel computing)

Programming assignments
Theory

Overlap w/ lots of other courses